Dear Catherine:

You had inquired about the decision made in the Blair-Taylor School District to purchase filters from Stetzer Electric.

My board was apprehensive about the issue to begin with because Dave Stetzer has a business in town and I am a personal friend of his. I learned quite a bit about electrical pollution from Dave and made several visits to farms and residences with him. I watched him diagnose problems and saw the difference his recommendations made. In some cases, filters were recommended. In other cases, he identified other issues and made recommendations on how to remedy them.

I visited with Dr. Martin Graham, the professor from Berkeley that Dave has worked closely with. Based on the research they have done, I became convinced that there was something to this and I have seen evidence of the difference the filters have made.

We were not the first school in the area to put in filters. I put them in my own home prior to bringing the matter to the attention of my school board. The board did agree to place filters in both of our buildings and we had between 700 and 800 installed. I don't have hard evidence of what has changed but have some anecdotal evidence. I had one staff member who had severe migraines for many years. These and almost gone completely away since the filters were installed. We had a number of students on medication for hyper-activity (mostly Ritalin). This number has also been dramatically reduced since the filters were installed. I, personally, have had back problems for years. After installing the filters at home and in my office, I did not see a chiropractor for over 18 months and my chronic sore back went away.

There is mounting evidence that supports the case for electrical pollution and the need to take corrective action. I told my board that I could not offer any guarantees that the filters would be a cure-all but said I was certain that the results would be well worth the investment. I believe they have been.

Sincerely,
